Enroute home last night, after having spent the afternoon and evening at the Church of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Midland, hearing confessions of person participating in a mission being conducted at that church, Rev. Fr. Anthony Donatelli, assistant pastor of St. Vitus church, this city for the past three years, was instantly killed, when the automobile in which he was enroute home, plunged down a twenty foot embankment at West Bridgewater, near Beaver.

The car was wrecked. Eugene Krah, 23, of Forestville, Butler county, driver of the machine, and his uncle, William Krah of Ellwood City, who was also in the car, escaped with minor injuries.

Sleet Spoils Driver's View. According to Eugene Krah, driver of the machine, they had left the Church of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Midland, where Father Donatelli had been hearing confessions, about 10:30 o'clock last night, he having been called there by the parish priest for the purpose of bringing Father Donatelli home to this city.

Mr. Krah states that he was unfamiliar with the road, also that he was blinded by the sleet that was falling at the time, while the wet condition of the road added to his troubles.

When they came to the road at which the one on which they had been traveling ended in the form of a "Y", blinded as he previously stated by the sleet and not realizing that the road on which he was traveling did not continue on across, but came to an end, his car kept on going straight ahead and plunged down over the steep embankment.

Car Drops 20 Feet.

The car was badly wrecked when it finally landed 20 feet below the road. None of the occupants, Father Donatelli, was killed.

PA NEW OBSERVES

In addition to the Eagle scouts, school teachers and members of their party there will be a large number of New Castle spectators at the inauguration ceremony in Washington on Saturday.

While March may enter as a lamb, the first few days have certainly been typical March weather. Blustery snowstorms and raw winds have predominated.

It seems that a group of seventh ward engineers are engaged in a debate. Resolved, that there was at one time minted in United States 50 dollar gold pieces. Some are on the affirmative and some on the negative—and they aren't getting anywhere. Is there a coin expert anywhere who can put them out of their misery?

One of the Pa New family made a trip to Poland, O., last night, and is ready to testify that it was 1933's meanest night for driving.

WIDELY KNOWN IN COMMUNITY

(Bulletin 2:30 P. M.)
County Coroner Orville Potter, and police were called to the office of the American Oilment company, in the Greer building, and it was found that J. Ed. Duff, secretary of the company, was dead.

According to Coroner Potter, Mr. Duff had evidently chloroformed himself. His body was found on a counter in the office, with an overcoat wrapped around his head, and a cloth with the chloroform inside.

Mr. Duff was dead when found. When Mr. Duff did not return home for dinner today, relatives started an investigation, with the result that Mr. Duff was found dead about 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. Duff was about 73 years of age. His home was at 218 East Wallace avenue.

Sentiment Seems To Favor Tax Notices
In order to ascertain the sentiment of taxpayers the county commissioners have been making some inquiries regarding the sending out of tax cards this year. From the interviews so far a majority of citizens seem to favor the sending out of the tax statements. In fact about four out of five have favored the cards.

County Treasurer William O. Pitts, who will have charge of the work, says that he is perfectly willing to do whatever a majority of the people want. The cards could be sent out this year for less than last, on account of extra help being paid one dollar per day less.

L. B. Round Presides As The Toastmaster Of Evening; Many Features

Eight hundred boys sat down to dinner in the Cathedral Thursday night. Four hundred of them might have been called as old boys for they were the fathers of the 400 youngsters present, but young or old the crowd was entirely composed of boys, there for the first annual community fathers and sons banquet.

It was a completely gratifying success, this first annual banquet. Successful from the size of the crowd, from the quality of the dinner, the merit of the program and wonderfully successful from the standpoint of the spirit of the crowd. There was an utter lack of formality and form, everybody was there for a good time and had it.

Dr. G. S. Bennett Chairman. The banquet was under the sponsorship of the boys work committee here, which goes back to the Y. M. C. A. for its point of origin. Dr. G. S. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian church, was the chairman of the evening and welcomed the guests before introducing the toastmaster of the evening, Louis B. Round. Rev. A. M. Senator Walsh's Body Is Taken To Brother's Home

Funeral Arrangements Are Being Completed; Many In Mourning

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, March 3.—The honeymoon apartment prepared by Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, for his Cuban bride, was in mourning today, as the senator's body rested at the home of his brother, where his widow, his family and his senatorial colleagues considered funeral arrangements.

The senator's body arrived at the time the attorney general designate had arranged to return to the capital with his bride of five days, the Senora De Truffin of Havana.

Sen. Walsh died suddenly on a train in North Carolina early Thursday. The widow accompanied the body from Rocky Mount, N. C., and was greeted by a sorrowing throng of friends and acquaintances instead of the smiling faces she had anticipated when she and the 73 year old senator were married last Saturday at Havana.

Decision on the funeral arrangements will be made today.

Jehol City Evacuation By Chinese Soldiers And Civilians Under Way

(International News Service)
Crushed and scattered by the powerful Japanese Manchukuo military machine, Chinese volunteer forces in Jehol Province fled in panic on all fronts today. The Japanese moved swiftly toward Jehol City, their goal, following the capture of Pingchuan.

Some detachments of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's regular troops made an eleventh-hour stand on the eastern front to cover withdrawal of the main defending army, but were forced to capitulate when the Japanese inflicted heavy casualties. More than 1,500 Chinese were reported killed.

Evacuation of Jehol City by Chinese residents and soldiers continued. Japanese and Chinese authorities agreed that the city's fall was "imminent."

Chinese Flee. Changchun, Mar. 3.—Chinese troops fled in panic from the vicinity of Jehol City today as the Japanese-Manchukuo army pressed swiftly toward its goal.

With the capture of Pingchuan, the invading forces had a clear route to the capital of Jehol province, and the fall of Jehol City was imminent.

Some detachments of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang's regular troops made an eleventh-hour stand on the eastern front to cover the withdrawal of the main defending army, but were forced to capitulate when the Japanese inflicted heavy casualties.

Volunteer fighters on all fronts fled helter-skelter when the supposedly strong Chinese defense line before Jehol City crumbled under the Japanese advance.

Military observers here expressed belief that the remainder of the advance would be a "walk-over" unless the Nanking government immediately capitulated.

HOOVER TO ISSUE STRONG STATEMENT

(By GEORGE E. DURNO)
International News Service Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Mar. 3.—A strong public statement was expected from President Hoover today calling the people to task for their financial hysteria.

White House decision to issue it was made shortly after the arrival in Washington last night of President-elect Roosevelt.

Apparently, the outgoing, and incoming administrations agreed that the country in general should be admonished severely for its seeming lack of confidence in the banking structure—backed as it is by huge sums of government money.

Mr. Hoover is to issue the statement, it was understood, by agreement with the Roosevelt forces that will step into power tomorrow.

Senator Byrnes (D) of South Carolina, saw Secretary of the Treasury Mills last night shortly before he met with the President-elect, accompanied by Senator Cordell Hull of Tennessee, the next secretary of state; Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, the majority leader, and Senator Key Pittman (D) of Nevada.

Meanwhile, Mr. Roosevelt held in reserve a call for a special session of Congress, to meet next Wednesday. If the Hoover statement fails to deter the public from their rush to the paying teller's window, the "new deal" may start off with some drastic safeguarding recommendations.

It was hoped that a favorable psychology would follow the inauguration of Mr. Roosevelt tomorrow as president.

The birds were singing in the eucalyptus trees. The birds were singing. Why? Because they couldn't read the papers. The papers said the bank clerks had worked so hard lately that they should have a holiday, so we are all on a holiday. Let's take it on the chin and grin.

The Rogers having laid in no supplies against such an emergency, will be living on horse meat, as that's our sole product. I love horses, and I only ask, don't let me know which one we are eating today.

I hear they have called a moratorium on inaugurations. Yours, Will Rogers

Roosevelt Will Become President At Noon Saturday

Many Conferences Today Mark Last Day Before Inauguration

CROWDS SWARM INTO WASHINGTON

Leaders Confer On Steps To Remedy Banking Situation In Nation

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Mar. 3.—With less than 24 hours separating him from the burdens of the presidency, Franklin D. Roosevelt engaged today in an arduous series of conferences with members of his cabinet and leaders of congress on plans for swift action in governmental affairs upon their assumption of power at noon tomorrow.

The banking situation was their chief concern.

The President-elect will call at the White House at four p. m., but whether it is to be only a courtesy call, or in the nature of a conference between the incoming and outgoing executives remained to be determined.

Visits Walsh Home. President-elect Roosevelt broke into his conferences long enough shortly after noon to call at the home of the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh, whose sudden death yesterday deprived him of the Montana's services as attorney general and forced the expected temporary designation of Homer S. Cummings of Connecticut. Mr. Roosevelt motored to the Walsh home to console the late senator's bride of five days.

Political matters, as well as more weighty subjects occupied the President-elect's time during the day. He conferred at some length with James A. Farley, postmaster general-designate, and with Edward J. Flynn of New York.

Later it was reported on reliable authority that Jesse I. Straus of New York was to be named ambassador to Cuba.

The pre-inaugural crowds swelled steadily as the day advanced. Special trains, automobiles and airplanes brought thousands to the capital. The crowded hotels were beehives of activity and the streets were crowded with people.

Welcomes Roosevelt. Washington, Mar. 3.—A capital gaily decorated in his honor, but saddened by the tragic death of Attorney General-Designate Thomas J. Walsh, and tense over the gravity of the national banking situation, welcomed Franklin D. Roosevelt today.

Tomorrow he becomes the 31st President of the United States, and thereby automatically inherits burdens such as no incoming President save probably Lincoln has faced at the outset of his administration.

Washington is crowded with joyous Democrats, eager for "the new deal" after a dozen years in the political wilderness. But their exuberance has been tempered by the unprecedented conditions.

The situation has shattered some of the formalities that usually accompany inaugurations.

Usually the incoming and outgoing Presidents do not meet until (Continued On Page Six)

DECLARES ASSESSMENTS WRONGLY MADE

City Solicitor Gives Statement

White Says Triennial Should Be Made On Actual Sales Basis

COUNCIL COULD CUT VALUATIONS

Robert White, solicitor for the city has drafted a communication to be presented to councilmen relative to the triennial assessment, in which he asserts that the assessment in this city has never been legally made. He quotes from the third class city code and maintains that the assessor has no authority to make a partial assessment of property, i. e., he may not assess property for a less amount than its full sale price value.

The communication says: March 1, 1933. The Honorable Mayor and Council of the City of New Castle, New Castle, Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen: This is the year of the triennial assessment, and I therefore feel it my duty to disclose to you what the law is with reference to the making of assessments.

As I have said on numerous occasions heretofore, the assessment in New Castle has never been legally made. The third class city code provides in section 2504, among other things, as follows:

"The assessor shall make or cause to be made during the year of the triennial assessment for county purposes a full, just, equal and impartial assessment of all property."

"In all cases he shall value or cause to be valued the property at such sums as the same would in his judgment bring at a fair public sale thereon."

Under this provision of the act of Assembly the assessor has no authority to make a partial assessment of property, i. e., he may not assess property for a less amount than its full sale price value.

For years it has been said that the assessed valuation in New Castle is not the full valuation, but there has been no authority for that statement, and when we have occasion to try cases on assessment in court, we have never been able to get any one who would testify that the percentage of assessment was the same. This evasion of the law has caused grievous inequalities in assessments. I say to you, therefore, that the duty of the assessor is to return to you a report and assessment showing the true value of every property in New Castle.

By this I mean he must assess a property at the sum which it would in his judgment bring at a fair public sale thereon, i. e., what it would be sold for if it were put up at public sale. The assessor can not put on the property its reconstruction value, nor can he lawfully determine its valuation by measuring it and allowing so much per cubic foot; he can not either put a value on the house and a separate value on the lot in making his final assessment. His assessment must be what he thinks the property would sell for as a whole if it is offered for sale. He can, of course, take into consideration in reaching his conclusion

CLOGGED BOWELS EXACT THEIR PRICE

They sang the moon over the mountain and brought springtime to the Rockies, they went back to their school days, school days, dear old golden rule days, and then they sang the air with "Sweet Adeline." It was real pep singing and the rafters seemed to shake with the volume of it.

A telegram was read from Marcus A. Feuchtwanger, state representative of the boys work, regretting his inability to be present on account of a death in the family. Mr. Feuchtwanger was the honorary president of the organization backing the dinner.

Interesting Program. The program was one that pleased both the fathers and the sons. James Griffith, "The Baker Boy" who grows before your eyes, demonstrated his ability to add inches to his height at will and got a hand, as did Joe De May with his piano-forte, Glenn Gottschalk with his violin and Jerry McElhane with his piano-forte. "Red" Williams sang two solos as only he can do it.

Toastmaster Round reviewed the history of the boys work movement and said that the crowd present in times such as the size would have been in normal times. He introduced Bart Richards, who made the address of welcome to the sons.

Dr. Beeler, Chief Speaker. Dr. L. H. Beeler, head of the history department of Grove City college, delivered the chief address of the evening and while his address was a brief one he put over a message with a punch. "The Hope of America" was the title of his address and in it he said that the hope of America was the boys; if they fail, then America fails.

As America thinks and acts, so goes the world, declared Dr. Beeler and for this reason he urged that American boys be given the fullest educational privileges, that they might be trained to serve in every walk of life.

The entire program was not a lengthy one, but was thoroughly enjoyed. With such a success as last night's first venture in the fathers and sons community banquet idea, it certainly will become an annual affair.

USING AMERICAN PRODUCTS

ARTHUR BRISBANE recently quoted W. A. Seddon, vice president of the Seaboard Air Line, as stating that the one bright spot on the railroad map is the movement of perishable fruits and vegetables out of southern Florida. Then, Mr. Brisbane adds the significant fact that so-called tariff reformers have a scheme to wipe out these "bright spots." "They would," he adds, "reduce the tariff on such food products, and throw our market open to competition. This would mean that Mexican perishable fruits and vegetables would supply this country. Everybody has a friendly feeling for Mexico, but Americans should eat things grown by other Americans on United States soil."

There can be no question of the soundness of Mr. Brisbane's statement. The same reasoning applies to other products grown on the American farm, with which the foodstuffs of Canada and Latin-American countries come into competition. The reasoning is sound in spite of the claims of the free traders that the protective tariff gives our farmers no benefit. When talking about farm products the free traders have only wheat in mind. For purposes of argument it is the only agricultural commodity of which they take any cognizance, although it is by no means the most valuable crop of the American farmer.

Another bright spot might be created for the railroads in the business picture by the shutting out of foreign coal and foreign oil. This would undoubtedly be a boon not only to the coal miners and operators of the country but to the railroads who would get the job of hauling the black diamonds from the coal fields of Pennsylvania and West Virginia to the east coast. In fact a great many things would be accomplished by a sane adjustment of the tariff which would be made with a view to helping America and not the New York importers and European and Japanese employers of cheap labor.

THE ANIMAL INSTINCT

Man is not so far removed from the animal state but that he instinctively wants to fight when he gets into trouble. Back of the wars in South America and the Orient and back of the revolt in Cuba and the uprisings in Europe is the sorry economic condition of the world. People are worried, therefore belligerent.

It's silly, but the mob is always silly. Like the hog in the bog it always does the thing that gets it in deeper instead of getting itself out. Japan thinks that by fighting China she will find prosperity. The South American republics are fighting themselves and their neighbors because they feel bad over the low coffee and beef prices. Perhaps they think by destroying each other there will be more to go around. The trouble in Cuba probably is due more to the collapse of the sugar market than to the alleged despotism of the Machado government.

Most of the disorders are remote from Washington yet the American government must cope with ramifications from all of them. The next administration at Washington is due for a thorough schooling in international problems. And all because the world finds it impossible to provide every worker with a job and every producer with an adequate market and satisfactory price.

INTERREGNUM'S END

Now that the interregnum between the national election and inauguration is nearly at an end the public is awakening to the dangers lying in such a situation and to the loss of valuable legislative time it has occasioned. This awakening partially accounts for the alacrity with which the states ratified the twentieth amendment abolishing the lame-duck session of congress and advancing inauguration day.

The whole country has been asking itself of late why the founding fathers did not early discover this defect in their system. Why did not this difficulty, apparently recurrent during 144 years of constitutional history, compel a change in the date of inauguration more than a century ago?

Congress and the states were not restrained in those early years by the Constitution tradition. Slow-motion transportation decided the question for them. But even after the Constitution had become a tradition with which none dared tamper and after the most remote state was brought within a few days travel of the national capital, the interregnum was undisturbed mainly for the reason that it seldom obstructed itself upon the even tenor of our national way.

Out of the 34 presidential elections between the original choice of Washington and the election last year, 12 brought the opposition party into control, but on only three occasions—1860, 1884 and 1892—was the political situation such as to render the interregnum seriously difficult. The country survived them all and quickly forgot the danger it had been in.

ROADS AND PROGRESS

Civilization is said to rest on the home, the school, the courthouse, the church. But how about roads? Isn't the ability to move about, to exchange goods and ideas, the real secret of human progress? Without roads could the home, school, courthouse and church exist in their present state?

A genius can be born in the desert, just as a clock can strike in the forest, but what good does it do, unless people beat a path to the place? The courthouse stands at the center of town, the school and church by some main thoroughfare and no man builds his home far from the highway.

Roads stand for more than mere commercial prosperity and pleasure riding.

It was the Roman road that made Roman law effective, and it was the English road that brought students to Oxford and Cambridge. By destroying dialect and provincialism, by inspiring people to know each other and their country, the American road is welding these 48 states into a nation united by more than political bonds.

A few years ago one could tell where a stranger came from by his accent, and with his accent went a lot of sectional prejudice. Today that is virtually eliminated, and good roads have had a great deal to do with this change.

In sections remote from railroads and waterways good roads are as indispensable as railroads and waterways are to the country served by them. Once it was the railroad that opened up new country to settlement; now it is the hard-surfaced highway.

A politician with his ear to the ground is in a swell position for a kick from the voters.

A LESSON FOR "FIFTY"
If you have passed the fifty mark, you doubtless have alarming thoughts when one of your friends about the same age, dies unexpectedly.

You do hard thinking especially about how you would leave your family in case you were taken soon and without warning.

You realize that you have had unusual aches and pains in recent years.

You know you must be careful about what you eat but have you stamina to eat only what you should and that at meal time?

You know that you should rest more at your age, and do you do it? This friend you have in mind seemed more rugged than you and had fewer demands upon his nervous system and seemed to have great endurance.

But his sudden taking proves to you that he was overtaxing some part of his system for he suddenly breathed his last—all gone in a second.

If these serious thoughts can induce you to give up pastime when you are tired—and not go beyond a reasonable speed and capacity—you are wise.

Perhaps your friend's death has brought home some sensible thoughts.

Isn't it pitiful that it must be those shocking hurts that are hard to bear to make most folk heed the many warnings they had?

Have you learned your lesson?

THE WAY WE ARE
Every life has its peaks. Like any mountain range, it has its high points that rise high above the humbler elevations. You think back and you remember many high moments. A bright morning after a storm. A golden moon hanging in the branches of a tree.

A singer, a violin player, a dancer. An instant when you were brave, when you were unselfish, when you were wise, when you were strong. A high peak of endurance or understanding.

Life falls away from these peaks, drops swiftly to the more commonplace living of existence. But standing in the valleys and looking up, we remember that once we stood up there, far away from the dead levels and were bold and good.

And as we were once so may we be again.

Euripides, who lived 24 centuries ago and was as wise as any man has been, wrote that "it is easier to give advice than to bear sufferings manfully." And after you have given advice to interfere, even though asked in the life of another creature you know that Euripides wrote truly.

A man complained—half seriously half smiling, as a man is likely to do—that his wife kept too close a rein on him, wanted to know where he was each minute, kept tab on him, made his life a prison. His wife and another man's wife admitted that the charge might be true.

The second wife said: "We women are like that. We do that sort of thing. We can't help it. It's terrible to be a woman." I don't know what other wives think: all I know is what this wife said.

Now that we have no chestnuts to speak of, a modern cookbook comes along and advocates keeping them in a Mason jar to have them retain their freshness.

It is claimed by a writer that a dog senses our inner longings. Perhaps he was thinking of the hot dog.

Now that we have no chestnuts to speak of, a modern cookbook comes along and advocates keeping them in a Mason jar to have them retain their freshness.

"Yes," he replied, "now you take your turn at holding me up."

A national movement is being promulgated to provide social recreation halls, where girls may have "dates" with impoverished young men. A serious social problem has arisen, it is claimed, resulting from the inability of young men to take girls out. It all depends on the girl. Young men who find that girls want the most expensive entertainment before they are married, will be worse off after they are hooked.

Censuring Michaelangelo Placed Among Useless Tasks

Action Of New York Customs Officers In Holding Up Photographs Of Sistine Frescoes Furnishes Amusement, But Has Serious Phases

"Quaintly amusing" is the country's verdict on the action of a customs agent in New York in holding up a consignment to an art museum of photographs of Michaelangelo's frescoes in the Sistine Chapel on the grounds that they are "obscene." It is felt that changes in the law should relieve employees in the federal service of the task of censoring art works.

Swift action "to save the customs from derision" is recommended by the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE which views the incident as "an offense, not only to the genius of the most illustrious artist of the Renaissance, but to the good taste and judgment of every civilized people."

Recording that the artist "finished his great work in the Sistine Chapel in 1511" and that "it is acknowledged to be his greatest painting," The Chronicle points out that "through all the vicissitudes of taste running for more than 400 years, the most illustrious artist of the Renaissance remains unchallenged." While suggesting that the service needs some official attention, the DES MOINES TRIBUNE has an afterthought to the effect that "it may be best, after all, not to interfere with the present qualifying of customs inspectors, for a good laugh will not hurt any of us these days."

The BIRMINGHAM AGE-HERALD, however, remembers "the fight of Senator Cutting against such censorship," and hopes for "injection of enlightenment into our treatment of imported art and literature."

"The agent probably is an excellent man for the job of spotting smugglers and contraband," concedes the ASBURY PARK EVENING PRESS, with the review of the case. "Several attempts have been made to abolish this form of censorship, which has served only to embarrass and harass the customs service and to afford some slight protection for the domestic obscenity industry. Two years ago some progress was made under the leadership of Senator Cutting, but there is still room for reform, as the case of the Sistine pictures indicates. As long as the law making morals censors of customs officers remains on the statute books there will be idiocies such as the confiscation of the world's most famous religious paintings." Similar sentiments are voiced by the BALTIMORE EVENING SUN.

"Oh, yes," remarks the AKRON BEACON JOURNAL, "the decision has been sufficiently reversed to permit delivery of the brochures to the addressee but only after eight days of intensive deliberation. And that prompts us to point out that repeal of the measures designating customs agents as art censors would save us from regularly being made the laughing-stock of the world."

The LOWELL EVENING LEADER sees the matter as "quaintly amusing," in view of the fact that "hardly any pictures in the world are more famous," and that "practically every encyclopedia carries reproductions of them." The SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) REPUBLICAN concludes that "no harm has been done by the contrary; the incident may be helpful in advertising the merits of the great art of the Renaissance."

Referring to the artist's "glorious tremendous ceiling," the NEWARK EVENING NEWS observes that officials of the customs service were reported as reluctant to discuss the incident, and they can't be blamed for that. The Evening News adds:

One often wonders how our forefathers could have lived without any knowledge of vitamins and calories.

"Michaelangelo," imagines the MILWAUKEE SENTINEL, "looking down from some exalted and sparsely peopled celestial apartment, may have sighed, but it is improbable. It is more than likely that he laughed and called to his cronies, Shakespeare, who had been ribbing him for 300 years about his rather bad sonnets, to come and take a look. Shakespeare could laugh, too, quoting by way of comment several passages which had been scissored from some plays of his on the same innocent shores. Both Messer Michaelangelo and Master William may have seen too much of that sort of thing to be annoyed. Michaelangelo may have recalled an incident of his lifetime. Now a fellow who should have been coloring tawny signs, one Daniele, was hired to paint aprons on the undrained sinners of his 'Last Judgment.' William may have remembered how certain sensitive editors removed whole scenes from his 'Troilus and Cressida' and several pungent lines (which he may have quoted) from his 'Romeo and Juliet.' Then Michaelangelo may have recalled that one M. Desnoyers, minister of state for Louis XIII (of all people!) in France (of all countries!) ordered his 'Leda and Swan' to be destroyed because of its indecency, and that the Florentines solemnly voted to put a slight garment on his 'David.'"

C., on Jan. 10, 1933, before the U. S. Army Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors was presented to the board.

CORN SUGGESTED AS FURNACE FUEL

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, March 3.—Use corn instead of coal in the furnace. This, in effect, is the advice given in the report of a survey issued by the University of Illinois agricultural engineering department.

At present prices corn is a fuel almost as economical as coal, it was found by E. W. Lehman, head of the agricultural engineering department, who directed the research.

State game wardens were unable to name the fish but William A. James at Peabody museum cleared the mystery and had the fish placed in a tank at the institution.

Holdup Occurs Last Night At East Side Store

Lone Holdup Man Takes About Thirty-Five Dollars At Point Of Gun

Confectionery store of Willard Hood, 1231 East Washington street, was the scene of a holdup last night shortly before eleven o'clock, when a lone holdup man, his face masked with a handkerchief, heldup Fred Bretell, who was in charge for the evening, at the point of a gun, securing between thirty and thirty-five dollars.

The man, who is described as having been about six feet tall and wearing a light overcoat and dark soft hat, entered the store, face covered, and a gun in his hand. He demanded the money of Bretell, at the same time throwing down a white sack on the counter, indicating that the money was to be placed in it. When the money had been placed in it by Bretell, whom he kept covered, he seized the bag and backed out of the store and disappeared.

COLONELS IN R. O. T. C.

Three Pretty Maids Are Officers of College Units

Many merrymakers at the annual George Washington ball held recently in Wichita, Kas., groaned when they tried to raise their arms next morning. Arms were sore from saluting three honorary colonels of the R. O. T. C. (Reserve Officers' Training Corps) units at three large Kansas universities who were guests of honor at the ball.

The three fair colonels were: Miss Camilla Luther, of the University of Kansas; Miss Mary Jane Clappitt, of the University of Wichita, and Miss Colleen Zacharias, of Kansas State college. Incidentally, they are three of Kansas' most beautiful girls.

CORN PROVES BETTER THAN CASH FOR PHONE

PITTSFIELD, Ill.—Corn is better than cash, at least when tendered for telephone service to the telephone company which serves Pike and Calhoun counties.

Back in 1931 the company realized that farmers were hard pressed for ready money and decided to accept corn in payment for phone service at rates 50 per cent above the market price.

To date the company has taken in 45,000 bushels of corn in exchange for the rural telephone service and claims this sets a new record in the present-day "barter and exchange" methods.

BROTHERS AID ONE FORGOTTEN IN WILL

(International News Service)
NEVADA, Ia., Mar. 3.—A new kind of contest was filed here.

When the will of Jacob Fiala, wealthy farmer, was filed for probate it was learned that he left his estate in equal parts to five sons, excluding the sixth, John E. Fiala altogether.

The five brothers filed an application for reapportionment of the estate so the sixth brother would also get an equal share. They contended that their father merely "forgot" to include John in his will.

Eight Convicted In Detaining Of Garrett Schenck

Johnstown Detective And Seven Co-Defendants Hear
Jury Bring In Verdict

SENTENCING OF MEN IS DELAYED

(International News Service)
CLEARFIELD, Pa., Mar. 3.—Sentencing of J. J. Devine, Johnstown detective, and seven co-defendants found guilty in the abduction and detention of Garrett Schenck, New Jersey fish peddler, was withheld today pending arguments on a new trial motion to be heard at the May term of court.

Counsel for the defendants filed the new trial motion immediately after a Clearfield county jury found the eight men guilty—four of kidnapping and conspiracy, and four of conspiracy—in the attempt of Devine and his aides to solve the Baby Lindbergh kidnapping case.

Shortly before they begin their historic ride up Pennsylvania avenue that ends in the formal transfer of power.

But today President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt will meet and confer over the situation, and it is likely that before nightfall the country will have reassuring word from both that the national government is prepared to cope with the emergency and take steps to relieve the situation.

Besieged by Callers
Almost from the moment of his arrival here the President-elect was besieged by callers, and today was virtually given over to conferences with legislative leaders.

The advice poured into the incoming President's ears covered a wide range, but he kept his own counsel until after his meeting with Mr. Hoover.

Senator-elect William Gibbs McAdoo, wartime secretary of the treasury, proposed closing the New York stock exchange "until the country can get its bearings". He pointed out that this was done for a period during the early war days, and that the country maintained its equilibrium and forged ahead to a greater prosperity than it had ever before experienced.

Senator Carter Glass, who succeeded McAdoo as secretary of the treasury, and who declined to resume the post in the Roosevelt administration, earnestly advocated adoption before noon tomorrow of his banking bill, now held up in the House.

Numerous were the proposals that the new Congress be called immediately for some form of legislation that will put the vast resources of the federal government behind the bank depositors of millions of citizens.

Many Job Hunters
Interspersed with the callers who were anxious to discuss future legislative moves were the inevitable job-hunters, and the Democratic rank and file from the country over. Throughout the day trains, automobiles and airplanes poured their thousands into the capital. It is estimated that by the time Mr. Roosevelt raises his hand to take the oath of office soon after noon tomorrow there will be nearly 200,000 visitors in the city. Hotels and rooming houses are jammed.

The weather outlook is not auspicious. The forecast today was unwilling to guarantee sunshine, but that was not deterrent to the Democratic hosts intent upon being in at the advent of "the new deal".

Inaugural weather is seldom good, anyway. Hoover delivered his inaugural address in a pouring rain; Taft was inducted into office to the accompaniment of a howling blizzard that interrupted wire communications; and Wilson had almost a blizzard for his second assumption of power. March is not kind to Washington.

County Borrows To Meet Relief Needs

In order to meet current expenses of the county relief department, county commissioners have borrowed $15,000 from a local bank. It is probable that other loans will have to be secured, before the 1933 taxes begin to come in.

Some other items are paid for with money received from the state, but there are a number of bills which must be met by the county.

MONKEYS ALTRUISTS DECLARES PROFESSOR

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 3.—Monkeys and apes are the original altruists, if you'll take the word of Dr. Robert M. Yerkes, professor psychology at Yale.

Lecturing here, Dr. Yerkes said it can be proved that "monkeys performing the rites of grooming each other's hair, massaging the skin and removing splinters, do so by instinct."

The evidence seemingly points to the existence of instinctive altruism in all primates, including man, he stated.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS; HUNDREDS ARE DEAD IN QUAKE IN JAPAN

safety in the surrounding snowdrifts as the tremors and rushing waters crumbled their homes before their eyes, and took refuge on high ground despite freezing blasts sweeping the seacoast from the north.

Among thousands of homeless refugees standing shivering and hungry among the ruins, troops distributed 500,000 loaves of bread under supervision of the sanitary corps.

Two units of the 24th and 27th Infantry regiments were mobilized to preserve order and assist the fire brigades in quenching flames and searching the ruins for bodies.

It was learned that the telephone girls at Kamashi, worst hit of the cities, stuck to their posts and sent out SOS calls as long as their wires held against the earth tremors.

With schools and colleges closed throughout the area, the home ministry sent out officials to determine upon the amount of aid required.

CHINESE FORCES DEFENDING JEHOI FLEE BEFORE JAPS

late dispatched heavy reinforcements north of the great wall to defend the capital.

Tokyo, Mar. 3.—Mutiny broke out today among Chinese forces mobilized for a last stand at Jehoi City, according to reports from the Japanese headquarters at Chinchow, Manchuria.

It was also reported that Generals Chang Tso-Hsiang and Wan Fulin had returned to Peiping to inform Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, Chinese commander in the North, they could agree on no plan for further resistance against the Japanese.

Tang Yu-lin, governor of Jehoi Province, was reported to have disappeared as loss of his dominion to the Japanese appeared imminent.

Near Jehoi City.
Tokyo, Mar. 3.—Relentlessly pursuing fleeing Chinese, Japanese Manchukuo troops captured Pingchuan this afternoon while advance forces approached the outlying districts of Jehoi City.

Occupancy of Pingchuan at 1:30 p. m. gave the Japanese control of the last important provincial stronghold save Jehoi City, (Chengteh), the capital, not already captured.

Pingchuan is about 50 miles from Jehoi City, and the advance troops were last reported within 40 miles of the capital.

Latest reports received here placed the vanguard of the advancing army less than 40 miles from Jehoi City.

Thousands of residents have fled from the capital. Reports here stated that Governor Tang Yu-lin of Jehoi had "disappeared."

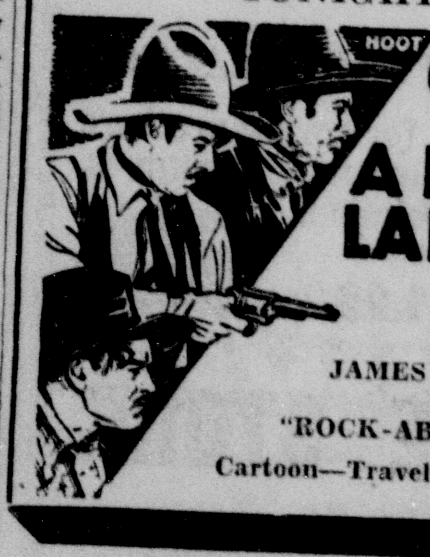

AMERICA MAY YET HAVE SUPERB MUSIC

(International News Service)
PARIS, Mar. 3.—The time may come when America will rival in music the architectural grandeur of its skyscrapers, according to Victor Prah, American musician who lives in Paris.

"But as yet the great American composer has not appeared," he adds. "No one has expressed the soul of America in music as Beethoven did the soul of Germany or Debussy the soul of France. However, there is one consolation: we are still a young people, and music has always been slower in its development than the other arts."

PLAY ENTERTAINS GROUP

The B classes of the Senior high school were delightfully entertained recently when a play entitled "The Valiant" was presented by the dramatic class in the high school auditorium.

SENIORS TALK BUSINESS

The Senior A's met in the auditorium this week and it seemed as if those dignified classmen had left all their dignity in the hall before entering the meeting by the sound of the fervent discussion about dances, dues, dinks, tams, class-day and what not. It was decided then that the dance was to be held to night at the high school to help in the class coffers. As to dinks, the boys soon decided what they wanted, but about the girls' hats—oh! oh! Some wanted tams and others wanted sailor hats. They argued you know, just like women usually do. In fact, one little lady was just bound that they should have sailor hats with a white background and green trimmings but she and her party were defeated by those who wanted dinks and tams with a green background and white trimmings.

The class supervisor, Miss Clara Elliot, expressed her desire to get better acquainted with the members of the class, with a word of thanks for the flowers received from the class during her recent illness.

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Psalms 126:3—"Jehovah hath done great things for us."

(The international uniform lesson on the above topic for March 5 is March 5:21-43, the Golden Text being Psalm 126:3, "Jehovah hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

That Golden Text might well have been sung as an anthem by those two families of Capernaum that day of our lesson: Jairus, holding his little 12-year-old child in his bosom and praising God for 12 years of sunshine saved to him and his family by the Master bringing the little girl back to life; the woman who clutched the hem of his garment and felt 12 years of darkness turned into glorious sunshine, singing with them: "Jehovah hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad."

12 Years of Sunshine Saved.

"My little daughter is at the point of death: I pray thee, that thou come and lay thy hands on her, that she may be made whole, and live." Here is anguished parental love crying from the depths to the one who could help "when other helpers fail and comforts flee." Luke tells us this was Jairus' only daughter and that she was 12 years old. Twelve years of sunshine seemed about to end in darkness; 12 years of the music of childish glee were about to be hushed in silence. Immediately Jesus accompanied the broken-hearted father, making the best time they could as "a great multitude followed him, and they thronged him."

Then there came an interruption which must have seemed like an age to the anguished father as Jesus is stopped, not so much by feeling someone clutching at the hem of his garment, as by the consciousness

Not Dead, But Sleeping.

Meanwhile there came to Jairus the message that his little daughter was dead, and that he should not trouble the Master further. With a word of encouragement to the bereaved father, Jesus led him confidently to the child's side, saying, "The child is not dead but sleepeth."

And then Jesus demonstrated the truth of his word and power of his grace by taking the child by the hand (if we translate his words literally), "Little Lamb, arise." And with this infinite tenderness he reminded them that she needed food.

Gas Company Would Confer

Letter To Council Says Gas Company Willing To Discuss Situation

NO ACTION TAKEN BY COUNCIL BODY

Councilmen convened today in the city building during which the city clerk read a communication from President George W. Ratcliffe, Manufacturers Light & Heat company. The letter said the company officials at any time would be willing to confer with city officials relative to conditions surrounding rates, service and other matters of the company. Council took no action on the letter.

The letter in effect said the company had learned from the newspapers of efforts being made to raise money by subscription to be spent for the necessary expense in connection with certain legal procedure against the company relative to its service and rates.

"We want you to know, if for no other reason, the large sums we have invested in your community suggest we have as deep an interest in the welfare and prosperity thereof as you, yourselves, may have," it said.

Ratcliffe wrote that he believes it impracticable to discuss in a large meeting the value of a large property which comprises a system which extends in three states, a fair rate of return thereon, rates for service which would produce this return and all other related matters.

He added that "we desire to extend to representatives of communities all reasonable assistance in arriving at any intelligent conclusion as to whether or not rates are fair and our service reasonably satisfactory."

"We will be glad at any time to confer with your representatives and give them information which will enable you to better understand conditions surrounding rates, service and other matters that may seem to merit your investigation which will enable you to come to a just and intelligent conclusion."

The letter also stated that "to our mind this is a business matter and should be handled in a businesslike way and before your community and this company be committed to incur the expense incident to a litigation of these questions and settlement through the regulating authorities or courts, you should first put yourselves in possession of all the facts."

TAKE A PILL WHEN WEATHER IS 'CRANKY'

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Mar. 3.—Here is good news for the millions of people who develop bad temper in bad weather! A Berlin physician and physiologist has invented hormone pills with which to fight the influence of bad weather not only on the temper and humor of people, but also on their physical condition.

His new pills affect the central nerve system and the vascular nerves. The former are stimulated, while the latter are calmed simultaneously.

At the same time the new remedy affects the heart relieving the patient from undue pressure under the influence of thunderstorms and tornadoes.

AUTOS KILL 119 CHILDREN AT PLAY
HARRISBURG, Mar. 21.—Motor vehicles killed 119 children playing on the streets of Pennsylvania in 1932, the division of Safety Department of Revenue, reported today. Thirty-eight were four years of age or less. The others were between five and 14 years old.

COSTLY DOG BITE
(International News Service)
WATERBURY, Conn.—Donald McCarthy lost a finger but gained $1,200 in damages despite Paul Daunais' efforts to show that his dog could not have bitten off the member. Daunais brought his dog to court to prove his gentleness but Judge Edward I. Finn said the animal appeared large enough to have bitten off the finger.

Preparing for the Big Day

Betty and Ann Farley, children of Postmaster General James A. Farley, are shown in their New York home as they dressed their dolls in gala attire for the inauguration ceremonies which mark the beginning of their father's duties as a Cabinet member. The Farleys will maintain their New York home until next Fall, after which they will take up residence in the capital.

SCRIP DOLLAR IS PLANNED TO COVER BIG CITY DEFICIT

(International News Service)
COLUMBUS, O., Mar. 3.—A scheme of issuing in scrip 400,000 one dollar bills has been advanced by Preston E. Thomas, warden of Ohio penitentiary, as a solution for the $400,000 deficit facing the city of Columbus at the end of 1932. Simultaneously with the issuance of the scrip money, 2,000,000 city stamps would be released, according to the warden's plan. Each week, anyone finding a scrip bill in his pocket or cash-drawer, would paste a two cent city stamp on the back of the bill. When the back of the bill is completely covered with 50 two-cent stamps, it would be redeemable at the city hall.

The process, according to Warden Thomas, would take 50 weeks for completion and $400,000 in stamp money would be in the city treasury.

TRAP ENDS TORTURE FOR COLORADO COYOTE

(International News Service)
ROGGEN, Colo.—A coyote trap on the J. E. Painter ranch near here recently brought to an end what apparently was a life of torture. A coyote caught in the trap was wearing a dog harness, which the animal's efforts to free himself from only increased his suffering. The coyote apparently had been captured and partially domesticated while young.

He had escaped while wearing a small dog harness, and as he grew, the leather thongs dug deeply into his flesh.

GERMANS TO PROBE WORLD SUICIDE "WAVE"

(International News Service)
AUGSBURG, Germany, March 3.—Convinced that suicide represents a serious disease of the whole civilized world rather than individual derangements, Dr. Hans Rost, noted German psychologist, has founded an "Archive for investigating and combating the suicide wave." More than 100,000 people end their lives annually all the world over, Dr. Rost said.

The suicide rate is the highest in countries which have been hit hardest by the business depression. In central Europe, Austria has the highest number of suicides with 3.12 per 10,000 inhabitants, closely followed by Hungary with 2.94 and Germany with 2.45.

CLAIMS CAUGHT TWO FISH ON SAME HOOK

(International News Service)
BELLINGHAM, Wash., Mar. 3.—The reputation of W. P. Brown, retired Judge of Whatcom county's superior court, is staked on this fish story. He claims the distinction of hooking two fighting steelhead trout on one hook—and landing them. They totaled fifteen and one fourth pounds.

Brown, an ardent disciple of the casting art, was making his first try at river fishing and was accompanied by Ray Lynch and Bill Bell when he got the strike which put him to work for thirty minutes. When he finally reeled in, he had two steelheads, one 8½ pounds and one 6½ pounds.

State Sales Tax Agent Visits City

Will Assist Local Business Men
In Making Returns Before April 1

Stanley M. Wray, representative of the Department of Revenue, arrived in New Castle yesterday afternoon, completing arrangements for assisting local merchants in making their returns under the requirements of the Emergency Relief Sales Tax bill, the period of payment on which expired February 28. He met a number of interested persons at the county treasurers office.

Mr. Wray stated that the Department of Revenue is putting forth every effort possible to assist the taxpayers in filing their returns and making payment of the tax. The report must be filed and the tax paid, on or before April 1, 1933.

It will be recalled that this tax was assessed to provide aid for the poor and needy of the state and the funds are urgently necessary at this time to meet the obligations undertaken.

For the accommodation of the taxpayers, the department has arranged to send a representative into each county to assist in filing the returns and accepting the payments. He is also qualified to answer questions relative to the tax and render any assistance possible in making out the returns.

In Lawrence county, the department representative will be stationed at New Castle in the council chambers, City building, on the following days: Tuesday, March 7, Monday and Tuesday, March 13 and 14, Monday, March 20, Monday, March 27 and Saturday, April 1.

Ellwood City dates are Wednesday, March 8 and Tuesday, March 21, at which time the state agent will be at the municipal building.

There will be no charge for the services rendered by the state representative and the department wants all taxpayers to feel free to call on him concerning matters pertaining to this tax.

The New Castle Business and Professional Women's Club along with 60,000 other members of the B. P. W. federation, is observing March 5-11 in special ways. The week comes around annually and is for the purpose of presenting the purposes of the organization to the public.

New Castle club usually has its annual banquet during National Business Women's Week but this time, in order to have the speaker it wanted, moved the date forward two weeks. The dinner was attended by 200 and was given in The Castleton ballroom.

The week will be opened however with a gathering of the members in the Green Room of the Y. W. C. A. next Monday evening, March 6. Dr. Mildred Rogers will be the speaker of the evening.

INVENTION TO SAVE SUBMARINE VICTIMS

(International News Service)
DENVER, Mar. 3.—Colorado engineers, gathered in Denver for the annual meeting of the state engineering society, recently saw Ernest E. Temple fire a steel needle the size of an ordinary lead pencil through a half-inch sheet of steel, using the newly-perfected "Temple gun" and .38 calibre blank cartridge.

Temple has perfected the gun for use in saving men trapped below water in submarines. By firing a hollow steel needle through the sides of such a ship, he says, food and oxygen can be pumped to them.

"I am forty-seven years old. I have been suffering from terrible headaches and nervousness. All the time I felt weak and tired. I have taken a number of bottles of Lydia E. "Since I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I feel better in every way. I took it as a tonic and builder. Now I sleep better, have a better appetite and more energy and strength. My Pills for Constipation are fine, too."—Mrs. L. M. Goodwin, 215 26th St., Columbia, Georgia.

Local Club Asked To Attend Dinners

New Castle Business and Professional Women's club has received invitations from the clubs in Wilkingsburg and Butler to attend their Public Relations dinners during National Business Women's Week.

The Wilkingsburg dinner will be on March 7 at 6:30 in the Penn-Lincoln hotel. There will be a speaker of importance and the club will have an open forum on "A New Ideal for Society."

Butler's dinner will be at 6:15 March 13 in the Penn-Butler hotel. Professor Talcott, instructor at Slippery Rock State Teachers college, formerly an impersonator on the Chautauqua platform, will furnish an interesting program.

It is likely that one or both of the dinners will have New Castle guests present, since no local club events fall on those dates.

HEALTH INSPECTIONS

HARRISBURG, Mar. 3.—The state health department's bureau of field inspection during the last three weeks has made investigations in 22 counties. As a result of these activities a large number of persons were reported to the department for non-compliance with health regulations. Ten prosecutions were instituted for violation of the quarantine laws, and a number of actions were instituted against dairymen who were operating without a permit or were otherwise violating the law.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

DAIRY MEETINGS

R. H. Olmstead, dairy specialist from State College, will discuss Bang disease (contagious abortion in cattle) at a series of meetings in Lawrence county next week. The discussion will include identification and control measures which have been successfully used against the ravages of this disease. All dairymen are invited to be present.

The schedule of these meetings is:

March 7, 10 a. m.—Fire hall, New Wilmington.

March 7, 2 p. m.—Westfield grange hall.

March 8, 10 a. m.—Liberty grange hall.

March 8, 2 p. m.—Carr school, Washington township.

POULTRY MEETINGS

"The Early Care of Chicks" will be discussed by H. H. Kauffman, poultry specialist from State College, at the two meetings in the county on March 10.

The first of these meetings will be held at 10 a. m. in the Carr school, Washington township; the second meeting will be held at 8 p. m. at the home of Charles McClain, North Beaver township. Poultrymen who are planning to start young chicks this spring are invited to attend either of these meetings.

IMPROVE LAMB QUALITY BY TIMELY PRACTICES

Pennsylvania sheep growers are favorably located in respect to markets. Seventy-five per cent of all the lambs produced in this country are consumed east of Pittsburgh and north of the Mason and Dixon line. There probably is no class of livestock coming to the market which receives such a heavy penalty as market lambs not properly finished and docked and castrated.

After July 1 any of the terminal markets, such as Pittsburgh, Lancaster, Baltimore and Jersey City, will discount buck lambs from $1 to $1.50 a hundred pounds. This is a good time of the year for every Pennsylvania grower to resolve that he will send lambs to market that will escape this penalty.

Dock all lambs when one to two weeks old and castrate all male lambs not saved for breeding purposes when they are two to four weeks old. Many growers perform both operations at the same time, but most of the good shepherds castrate the male lambs after the dock has healed. Docking and castrating market lambs mean more dollars in the grower's pocket.

CONTROL DISEASE OR LOSE BERRY PATCHES

Virus diseases will soon make a berry patch worthless. These diseases have destroyed the berry industry of several states and already taken a heavy toll in Lawrence county and Pennsylvania.

Yellow mosaic is the most severe form on red raspberries. It causes large, yellow mottled spots on the leaves and stunts the canes. The fruits crumble and become tasteless. Green mosaic does its least damage on red raspberries, but when it crosses over to black raspberries stunting or death follows within three years.

Mild streak, rarely found in Pennsylvania, causes mottling of the fruit, which often becomes imperfect and tasteless.

Severe streak is the most destructive virus disease. It will quickly ruin a black raspberry patch. Recently it has been found to attack blackberries. When this disease passes from blackberries to black raspberries it kills the latter within two years.

There are two curls, "a" and "b". The "a" curl, confined to red raspberries, curls and leaves, causes dwarfing of the canes and, although spreading slowly, eventually makes the canes fruitless. The "b" curl cannot be distinguished from "a" curl except that it attacks both red and black raspberries, spreads rapidly, and eventually kills the patch.

Practical control of these diseases rests in the use of disease-free plants, which now are available from certain growers in this county. Plants should not be used just because they are gifts or are cheap. It pays to know the source of plants. Do not plant red raspberries and black raspberries less than 500 feet. Also separate black raspberries and blackberries by the same distance. It is dangerous to plant the various kinds of brambles side by side on account of the spread of disease.

CAREFUL FEEDING BEST FOR GOOD MILKING COWS

Many dairymen of Lawrence county are losing money through under-feeding their cows.

Careful feeding tests show that it is always the cow that is well fed with a balanced ration and with grain in proportion to milk production that produces milk at the lowest cost. Low prices for milk make it more important than ever for dairymen to feed their cows carefully but liberally. Dairymen who have good cows and who are feeding short rations at present, with the idea in mind of saving money, are probably losing far more in milk returns, even at present low prices, than they are saving in feed costs.

Under present conditions, it seems very desirable for dairymen to take a careful inventory of their feed supply now and, if any shortage previous to pasture time is indicated, to go carefully over their herds and to weed out some of the less desirable animals. The very low price paid for beef animals discourages many from doing any weeding in their herds at present, but the parent loss through selling a few animals at low price will probably not be nearly so great as the actual loss that will follow the keeping and under-feeding of the entire herd.

NEED STRONG COLONIES WHEN HONEY FLOW OPENS

Only strong colonies populated by an abundance of worker bees at the beginning of the honey flow are able to produce profitable crops of honey.

All colonies having less than 20 pounds of honey will need feeding when the weather is warm during March and April. If available, combs of honey can be used for this purpose. In the absence of honey, sugar syrup may be used for spring feeding. Sugar syrup is made by mixing 1½ parts of sugar and 1 part of water by measure, and then heating until the sugar is dissolved. A one-half or one gallon friction-top pail, having 10 or 15 small nail holes punched in the lid, can be used as a feeder. When the weather is warm this feeder can be inverted in an empty super over the opening in the inner cover until the bees have taken the desired amount of syrup. Leaky feeders should not be used because of danger that the bees may be drowned and the syrup lost.

OKLAHOMA STUDENTS HAVE QUAINI IDEAS

(International News Service) TULSA, Okla., Mar. 3.—University of Tulsa freshmen recently expressed some odd ideas in an economic quiz.

"Socialism means that the poor people should share their things with each other," wrote one coed. "A good tax is one that is based upon compulsory giving," was another answer.

One student wrote the following on the gold standard: "The gold standard is a metal discovered by the Indians who worshipped it as one of their gods."

DRUNKEN DRIVERS

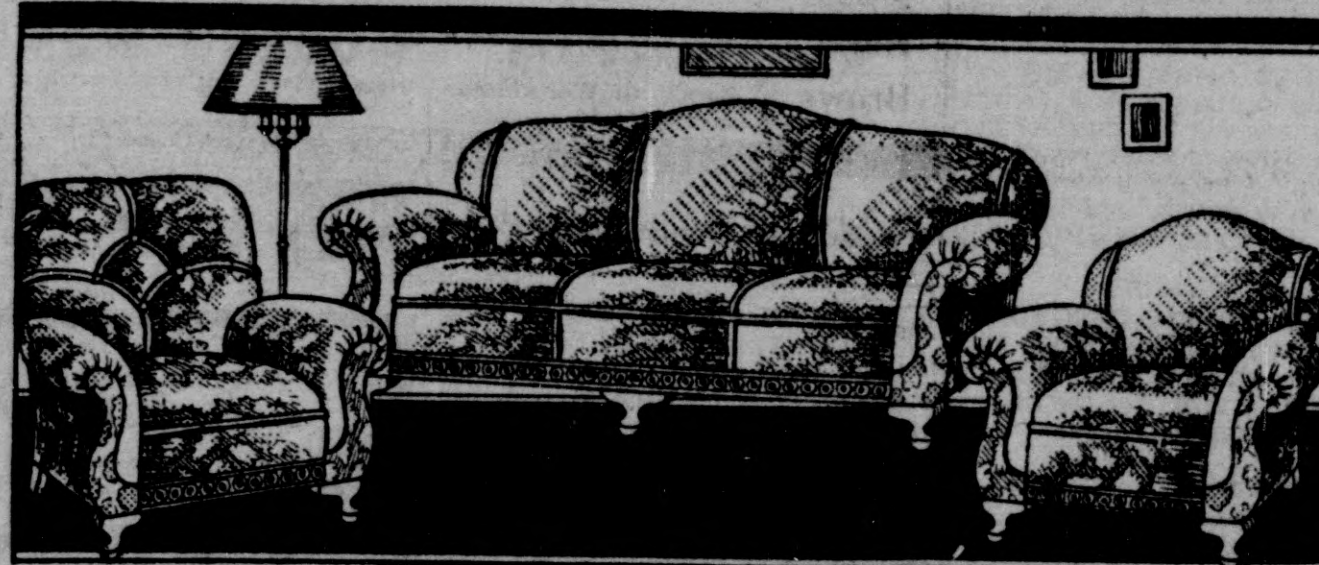

HARRISBURG, Mar. 3.—Intoxicated motor vehicle operators were involved in 105 accidents in January, according to the division of safety of the Department of Revenue. Three of these accidents were fatal. Non-fatal injuries were reported in 55 others. In 46, only the motor vehicles were damaged. Eleven intoxicated pedestrians were killed the same month. Forty one other pedestrians were killed in the same condition were non-fatally injured.

The taxpayer is required to attach to his return a statement showing the nature of business in which engaged, number of days away from home during the taxable year on account of business, total amount of expense incidental to meals and lodging, and total amount of "other expenses" incidental to travel and claimed as a deduction. Among the "other expenses" are tips, provided they are reasonable in amount.

Traveling expenses are deductible only when the trip is on business. They are limited to such expenses as are reasonable and necessary in the conduct of the business and directly attributable to it.

DETACHABLE NAILS SAVE MILADY'S TIME

(International News Service) PARIS, Mar. 3.—"Simplify it" is the new slogan of smart French beauty experts, who seem to have come to the conclusion that their many improvements upon nature are in danger of being neglected because they are becoming so numerous. Even the woman who has money as well as leisure has to work very hard to get in all her many appointments with her hair-dresser, manicurist and masseuse. Efforts are therefore being made to simplify matters. One of the latest novelties is a set of detachable finger-nails which can be slipped on easily.

The lacquered wig which fits the head as closely as a skullcap is also going to save Modern Eve a great deal of time.

Dr. Baker's Talk Tells How Pupils' Health Is Guarded

City School Physician Speaks To Medical Group; Cites Pre-School Work

In an address last night before the Lawrence County Medical society at the Y. M. C. A. building, Dr. Mary J. Baker, public school physician here, related the full procedure for examining New Castle's pre-school children.

Dr. Baker told, step by step, how the health of the youngsters is protected by vaccination and other medical action, and related other school health procedures. A planned demonstration, in which a number of school pupils were to have taken part, was unavoidably foregone.

President Dr. S. W. Perry presided as the society discussed its business affairs, during which time the doctors pledged their support to local agencies charged with the distribution of milk and food to indigent sick and needy here.

He then started to drive into the station and as he reached the sidewalk, Leo Onipoli of Boston avenue, who was walking south, walked into the left front fender of his machine and was knocked down. He got up, refused to go to a doctor and saying that he was going to church, went on his way. He was apparently uninjured.

The road had apparently been sprinkled with nails at one spot, since all three nails were of the same size and must have been picked up at the same place. Carrier Boak is wondering what will happen today. He has to cover the same route.

Fumes At State Highway Bureau; His Own Fault

Man Chafes At Delay In Getting Drivers Permit, But He Never Mailed Check

(International News Service) UNIONTOWN, Pa., Mar. 2.—They argued and they argued, did Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Silverthorne.

And a half dozen times the mailman went blithely on his way, not stopping at the Silverthorne home. While Silverthorne fretted and fumed—and rode the buses—his car remained in the garage and Mrs. Silverthorne kept a close watch on the mailman.

All in vain. Sarcastic remarks were directed at the mail service and at the State Revenue Department.

The driver's license should have arrived days ago.

A new difference of opinion arose. Had the application been mailed last Friday or last Saturday?

To settle it, the Silverthornes got out the checkbook.

There was the stub—and attached to the stub was the check for the license.

Silverthorne expects to quit riding buses in a few days.

Obligations assumed should be met.

STATE INTEREST IN LOCAL JUDGE'S RULING

Judge Chambers Reverses School Ruling By Keith

In Opinion Holds Vocational Schools Are Not High Schools

COURT FIGHT SEEN
FOLLOWING OPINION
Decision Handed Down Case
Growing Out Of Tuition Fees

BROOKVILLE, Pa., Mar. 3.—A ruling that is expected to be fought through every Pennsylvania court and which may reach courts of many other states, and that will have an all-important effect on scholastic affairs of the state, was handed down here Thursday, when Judge J. A. Chambers, Lawrence county, specially presiding, ruled that vocational schools are not high schools, despite a previous ruling to the contrary by Dr. Keith, superintendent of the Pennsylvania department of public instruction.

The opinion, first of its kind to be handed down in Pennsylvania, is of state-wide interest since there are vocational schools in most counties that will be affected because of tuition matters.

Test Case On Tuition

The case upon which Judge Chambers based his ruling was in the nature of a test suit brought by the school district of Falls Creek borough against the school district of Washington township, both in Jefferson county.

The suit involved the failure of G. W. Hicks of Washington township to pay tuition of $500 to the school district of Falls Creek, where his three sons were pupils. Falls Creek school district is attempting to collect the tuition from Washington township, contending that inasmuch as a vocational school does not pursue the same curriculum as a high school, that the credits acquired by its graduates were not such as were generally accepted by higher institutions of learning for admission of students, it is not a high school in fact.

Question Of Distance

The defense maintained that inasmuch as the Beechwoods Vocational school is within three miles of the home of the Hicks and that under the school code a school district is not responsible for tuition in a high school in another district, where one is provided within that distance in the district in which the pupil resides, that the tuition was owned by Hicks rather than by Washington township.

In his opinion Judge Chambers said in part: "It was the intention of the Legislature to provide for the creation of a school under the act of 1913, which was entirely distinct of its nature from the public high school, and as to the vocational agricultural education shall mean that form of education which fits the occupations connected with the tillage of the soil, etc.

Explains School Purpose

"It is the purpose of these schools to especially instruct in these matters, and it is shown by the testimony in this case that such studies are compulsory in the school maintained by the defendant. Two of the Hicks boys in this case, testified that they did not wish to pursue studies along this line, but preferred to select such studies as would fit them for the occupations or professions that they felt they wished to follow. Under that situation, we are of opinion that the Hicks boys would have a right to choose to attend the high school maintained by the plaintiff school district."

PILES

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

If you think a surgical operation is the only way to get rid of itching, bleeding or protruding Piles, it's because you haven't heard of the harmless internal medicine discovered by a prominent western physician.

After years of study, Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the cause of Piles to be internal—congestion of blood in the lower bowel—the hemorrhoidal veins flabby; the bowel walls weak; the parts almost dead. Right away the doctor set to work to find a real internal remedy. He succeeded, and after prescribing it for 1000 patients, with success in over 900 cases, he named his prescription HEM-ROID. The doctor wants every Pile sufferer to benefit by his discovery, and so there will be no doubting or delay. Eckerd's Cut Rate & New Castle Drug Co. and druggists everywhere are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee of money-back if it does not end Piles in any form.
So why waste time on external treatments or think of an operation when HEM-ROID tablets are guaranteed.

Buy American Plan Appeals To Most People

Other Nations Are Doing Their Best To Keep Their Business At Home

"Buy American" should appeal to every resident of this country and is being taken up by more and more people every day. And it should. You read today where the various countries of the world outside this are actively engaged in movements similar to this and for the benefit of the respective countries. They are not worrying about what happens to the other fellow, they are simply using every means possible to protect the industry of their respective countries and keep their people working and happy, says the American Legion committee.

That is one of the principal reasons for "Buy American". Charles Cripps of the Cripps Hardware company believes in it. He says "As a general proposition, I am in favor of the 'Buy American' movement. When you consider quality and service and not the price only, there is not much difficulty in putting the movement across. All should observe where the article wanted is made before turning over the purchase money and they will be sure that they are buying American made goods."

And when you "Buy American" you are keeping American money in circulation and American workmen employed and that is one of the principal things that is needed to make conditions here much better than they are now and will put an end to the depression that now prevails.

Programs In New Bedford Town Hall

New Bedford Grange announces that its next two regular meetings of March 7 and March 21 will be held in the Town Hall, New Bedford, instead of the Grange Hall. These meetings are the men's and women's contest programs.

This is the fifth year for these contests, the men having won twice and the women having won twice. Such a large interest has been created by these contest programs that the grange decided to have them in the Town Hall to be able to accommodate the crowd.

The regular business meeting of the Grange will be held at 8:00 o'clock. At 9:00 o'clock the program will be opened to the public.

ARE YOU A VICTIM TO COUGHS AND COLDS?

WINTER, that joyous season, means nothing to some people but just the coming of coughs and colds.

A person with thin blood or a run-down system offers an invitation to every germ to move in and take possession of the body. Sturdy, vigorous people who keep themselves in perfect health are not the ones who sneeze and cough from November to March.

Go to your druggist today—before you expose yourself to the coughs and colds of those around you—and fortify your system against ill with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It builds up the entire body. If you are miserable with bronchial trouble or catarrh, this tonic strengthens you and enables you to fight the battle.

Write to Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

Don't be that worst pest of all—the chronic sufferer from colds, who passes germs on to friends in the office and at every party.

THEY'RE MOVING TO WHITE HOUSE

From the modest home, above, at Hyde Park, N. Y., to the White House, below, in Washington, is a far cry for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nesbitt, inset, who are neighbors of the Roosevelt family. But they're soon making the journey because Mrs. Nesbitt has been appointed the new housekeeper of the White House, by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, while her husband has been named custodian.

Can You Name Past Presidents of the United States?

This layout includes all the presidents of the United States up to the present date. Fill in their names and then turn to page 17 and see how exact you are.

WHAT PRESIDENT IS ROOSEVELT?

Will Franklin D. Roosevelt be the 31st or 32nd president of the United States? Folk may disagree but the official inaugural medal will read the 31st president. The conflict in numbers goes back to Grover Cleveland, who after serving one term was defeated, but four years later was elected for a second term. Most historical lists have Cleveland as the 22nd and 24th presidents of the United States and, accordingly, Roosevelt will be listed as the 32nd, but not so on the inaugural medal.

Some Of The Gowns Gracing The Inaugural Ball

Interesting Photos In Life Of Senator Walsh

These are interesting pictures in the life of Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana who died on a train in North Carolina only a short while after he had been named attorney general in the Roosevelt cabinet and a few days after his marriage to Mrs. Maria Nieves Triffin, widow of a wealthy Cuban planter. (1) A recent picture; (2) with his bride; (3) in 1914, two years after he entered the senate; (4) at the Democratic convention in Chicago last June where he served as permanent chairman; (5) at his desk; (6) the first Mrs. Walsh, who died in 1917.

HIGHLIGHTS OF ROOSEVELT INAUGURAL

This layout portrays the highlights scheduled to take place at the inauguration of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt. Arrow outlines route President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt will take down Pennsylvania avenue to attend the inauguration ceremonies.

President-Elect Seen Through the Years

This layout portrays President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt through the years, from a baby to the presidency of United States. (1) Three months old. (2) Two years old. (3) Ten years old. (4) As a New York state senator. (5) As assistant secretary of the navy. (6) As governor of New York. (7) As the thirty-first president of the United States, at the age of 51 years.

LIFE EMPTY WITHOUT WIFE—SMITH TRIBUTE

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 3.—"Life would have been empty without her."

This was the tribute Al Smith paid to his wife, the mother of his five children, whom he married in 1900. She was formerly Miss Catherine A. Dunn of New York City.

"She has never failed to indicate by her attitude toward me and to her most intimate friends, and she has openly proclaimed that she thinks I am the greatest man in the world," Smith once wrote.

"I have no hesitancy in saying to the world that my life would have been empty without her. My greatest pleasure is sharing with her the honor, joy and satisfaction that have come to me from political success."

Backgammon In Comeback

Ancient Game Stages Revival And Arouses Nation's Interest

Has Affinities With Oriental, Greek, Roman And Old English Games

Backgammon has come out of the country paragonage. The word rolls beneath the tongue of New Yorkers no longer reminiscent solely of old-fashioned novels and old ways of living, but vibrant with a new lease on life. It is a subject folk are inquiring into the finding out considerable about, says the New York Times Magazine.

The decorative board, with its border of long, slender points, gayly colored, runs riot in the game sections of department stores, and backgammon booklets, like auction and contract bridge works, are multiplying. Many persons have come thus to discover at last the meaning of the markings on the inside of their old checker boards, which puzzled them no little in the past, and have looked up those boards and turned them inside out as a gesture of deference to the mode.

Others have proved themselves interested enough for some of the stores to carry backgammon boards wrought in ivory, cork and tooled leather, costing even hundreds of dollars.

It is a tradition of long standing to which these backgammon players are giving a spurt of public notice. When they take their dice boxes in hand and throw for the count that is to determine the moves of their men, they have something in common not only with the sedate players of the Victorian era, but with the more exuberant spirits of Chaucer's time, even with the hardy Romans, the ancient Egyptians and the far-away Persians. The tenth century is fixed by some as the time of the game's invention, but the ardent devotee digs back much further than that, tracing its ancestry to the earliest civilized men.

Word From Welsh
The name backgammon is held to have come either from the Welsh back, meaning, little and cammon, meaning battle; or from the Anglo-Saxon bac, back and gamone, game—a game in which the players expect to be sent back. But long before the term was devised the elements of the game had been put together under different names in different lands with different implements yet with a certain basic kinship.

Historic backgammon is of two general varieties. In the one, the dice are cast; in the other, dice are used. The natives of Palestine and Egypt may be observed today playing a game on the ground with sticks and stones, which is considered a member of the back-gammon family and traced to the backgammon of ancient Egypt whereas dice came only with the Romans. A similar form has long been known in India. The European variety, however, has always employed dice and this is the type played today.

The English game and the French known as trictrac (from the sound of the dice) is traced by some authorities to the Roman pastime, "twelve lines." Its early name in England was "tables" which according to Chaucer, was played with three dice; and this name persisted until it was dropped in the Elizabethan period. The Romans are thought to have got the idea of their game from the Greeks, who were all eager dicesters, but it is not known what sort of backgammon the Greeks played, probably a species of the game rather than pure backgammon.

Board in Grave of Ur Ruler
The Persian form shows strong resemblance to the European and some hold that there the game originated. From the grave of a ruler in Ur of the Chaldees 5000 years ago, a board has been recovered and the men and dice with which the royal spirit was intended to amuse itself in the other world.

The character as well as the origin of backgammon has been open to dispute through the ages. Long debates have been held on the subject of whether it is a game of skill or merely of chance. It's present popularity is attributed by one school of thought to the fact that it is a pastime that can be picked up by any one of average intelligence in a few spare moments, but another school holds that these fall far short of getting everything out of the game. In any case it has always stood high as a genteel form of recreation. Even the early Christians played it, judging from the marble slab found among Christian antiquities in Rome on which a backgammon board had been cut with a Greek cross in the middle.

It was backgammon or "tables" that together with chess, whiled away the last evening on earth of James I of Scotland just before his murder in the abbey of the Black Friars at Perth, 1437. And in 1479 it was the same game that proved the undoing of the captain of the guard at Edinburgh Castle, where the Duke of Albany brother of James III was a captive. The royal prisoner invited his jailer to supper and a game of "tables" and in the morning the cell was empty but for the corpse of the jailer.

VISITOR PUZZLED BY CHEWING GUM

(International News Service)
DELAWARE, O., Mar. 3.—A Holland woman, wife of a celebrated Dutch astronomer is puzzled by the following "phenomena" of Americans:

1. Chewing gum.
 2. Gossiping about famous persons.
 3. Unwillingness to be alone.
- The puzzled Hollander is Mrs. Han H. Oort. Her husband is visiting Ohio Wesleyan university to make observations through the 69-inch telescope here.

American advertising, however, received her approval. She found it "fascinating."

MINERAL MACHINERY TRANSPORTED BY AIR

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 3.—Thousands of tons of gold-mining machinery are being carried over rough mountainous jungles by airplanes as men seek to expedite the production of gold, according to the department of commerce.

A 4,000-ton American dredge recently was carried by plane into the interior of New Guinea. Three mountain ranges had to be crossed. In Canada, heavy mining machinery and in one instance a stamp mill, aggregating thousands of tons of weight, were carried by plane as far north as the arctic circle.

HEALTH BOARD ASKS BACK-NECK KISSING

(International News Service)
WORCESTER, Mass., Mar. 3.—When your sweetheart comes to call, it's perfectly permissible to greet him with a kiss—but kiss him on the back of the neck.

The thrill will be just as great as if the lips were kissed. The Worcester Board of Health guaranteed it.

The Board of Health started more than a mild epidemic of arguments by suggesting as a means of combating the spread of colds and grippe any kissing which "must be done" should be done on the back of the neck.

DENVER DOG AIDS IN ELEVATOR OPERATION

(International News Service)
DENVER, Mar. 3.—"Bal," a German police dog, has mastered the mysteries of elevator operation. He visits his owner, Robert Mullen, daily in a Denver office building, using his nose to push the button that sets the automatic elevator in operation. He also makes occasional visits to other tenants in the building, going from floor to floor unattended via elevator.

All Ready for Big Day

Here is a view of the completed stands at the National Capitol from which Franklin D. Roosevelt will take the oath of office during his inauguration as President of the United States. On that day the Capitol Plaza will be a seething mass of citizens from all parts of the country to witness the historic event.

Conference on Economics

Franklin D. Roosevelt pictured with Professor Raymond Moley, of Columbia University, as they discussed economic problems. Professor Moley, who was one of the incoming President's principal advisors during the campaign, will probably receive an appointment as an Assistant Secretary of State.

"FORGOTTEN" FARLEYS ARE TURNING UP

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Mar. 3.—James A. Farley, campaign manager for President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, has discovered there are 300 "forgotten Farleys." That many people claiming relationship, the says, have written to him since the election, all not adverse to taking a nice soft political job if offered.

FRANCE TO OBSERVE POSTOFFICE BIRTH

(International News Service)
PARIS, Mar. 3.—France this year will celebrate the 175th anniversary of a daily postal service in Paris. Prior to 1758 there were no mail carriers in the French capital. Monsieur de Chamousset was authorized in 1758 to establish a small post-office, similar to that in London, in the heart of the city. When fully organized the postmen numbered 117 and they ensured three distributions daily. Later nine branch offices were opened and 37 letter boxes installed.

THIS IS FAMED CAT CURIOSITY KILLED

(International News Service)
LONDON, Mar. 3.—Curiosity killed this cat.
She chose the grayhound race-course at Wembley Stadium on which to explore.
A race was in progress. Puss looked around saw six grayhounds bearing down on her at top speed—and arched her back. The mechanical hare caught poor puss.
The cat was killed instantly. The race was declared void.

CREMATION OF BIRD RESULTS IN SUIT

(International News Service)
DENVER, Mar. 3.—Cremation of a dead bird by two small boys may cost an oil company $17,350. Mrs. Clara Haber sued the oil company for this amount, charging the company sold a bottle of gasoline, to be used in the cremation to her son, Frank, Jr., 12. The gasoline exploded, burning the boy severely, it was claimed.

The Barry incident teaches us that an old man easily fired is guilty of libel if he says what a senator says.

AGED FRENCH SMITHY

SINGS WINE'S PRAISE
(International News Service)
PARIS, Mar. 3.—Wine won more laurels this week from Marc Pico, blacksmith who has just celebrated his 104th birthday. He says he owes his long and happy life to his daily practice of drinking good old Burgundy wine.

Pico was initiated to the mysteries of the forge only a few years after his birth in 1828 and continued to wield the hammer until a few years ago. During the greater part of his life he has consumed nearly two pints of wine at every meal and much more than that at intervals!

McClelland Is High Scorer On Teachers' Five

Captain Clark McClelland, Former New Castle Star, Leads Slippery Rock

TEACHERS TIE WITH EDINBORO

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., Mar. 3.—Slippery Rock State Teachers five hung up a rather impressive record by winning 10 of the 16 games and by clinching five of six starts against opponents in the West Penn Teachers' division which enabled them to finish in a tie for first place with Edinboro.

McClelland Leads. Scoring honors go to Captain Clark McClelland of New Castle, who led the team for the second consecutive year. Consistency seems to be McClelland's major point, for his total points during the two seasons are 108 and 107 respectively. He also held the best foul shooting average with 13 of his 17 shots finding the hoop.

Class A County League Game Postponed Until Saturday Night

Union High School basketball team will gain another days rest due to the postponing of the Union-New Wilmington Class A County League game until Saturday night. The game was originally scheduled for tonight, but owing to a play being given at New Wilmington the game was set ahead until tomorrow night.

DUKES HAVE LOST ONLY ONE GAME

(Special To The News)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Mar. 3.—Head Coach Charles R. "Chick" Davies will draw the 1933 basketball season to a close with the Duquesne University basketball team in the games with Carnegie Tech and Washington and Jefferson college in the next ten days.

After the regular season is drawn to a close, the Davies' machine will enter to play a number of exhibition benefit games in which tour New Castle is included.

St. Mary's Athletic Association has asked the Duquesne University basketball team, twice city champions, to make an appearance in New Castle, Tuesday, March 14. The game will be played at the George Washington Junior high school gymnasium.

"Chick" Davies consented to the request in order to return to the old home town in which he was born some thirty years ago. Although the Davies' family moved to Homestead, the city of New Castle remains pleasant in their memories.

The Duquesne University basketball team has met with fairly good success during this season. They have won 13 games and lost one, and that, to Westminster College in the early part of the campaign.

At present the Bluff team is on a win streak of twelve games. Included among the victims of this season are found the teams of University of Pittsburgh, Geneva College, Grove City College, West Virginia University, Westminster College, Adrian (Michigan) College, George Washington University, Carnegie Institute of Technology and Washington and Jefferson.

ket Today

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Mar. 3.—The stock market recovered after opening weakness on the expectation of favorable developments in the banking situation coinciding with Roosevelt's inauguration tomorrow.

Initial liquidation sent the list down from fractions to more than 2 points, with American Telephone the weak spot. The recovery started once the selling was absorbed and the early losses were largely erased with many issues going above the previous close.

Rails and steels led the rally, steel preferred surging more than a point. N. Y. Central and Atlantic were strong spots.

Indications of imminent developments in the banking situation included a bankers meeting at the Federal Reserve here which lasted virtually all night. One of the plans discussed was reported to involve issuance of clearing house certificates, similar to 1907, on assets of sound banks and part of the assets of closed banks to break the money stringency jam.

The better action of stocks was accompanied by firming tendencies in the bond market despite continuation of pressure on individual stocks. Commodities were firm while bank stocks were mixed. The dollar was lower against foreign currencies.

Allied Chemical was a strong leader. Short covering by an over-extended bear interest, reflected in a $10 premium demanded for borrowing purposes, sent the stock up nearly 2 points.

Strength in the steels was aided by the industry's efforts to stabilize prices. Steel common was active at higher prices, lifted by the spurt in the preferred.

American Telephone snapped back quickly after its weak opening and recovered the opening loss. General Motors was heavily sold but held above its low for the year.

Tobacco were strong. Trading was moderately active with volume running at yesterday's rate.

New York, Mar. 3.—The stock market reversed itself abruptly today as Wall Street turned to the buying side to greet the advent of the Roosevelt administration.

Confident buying developed after a weak opening and a bear panic broke out in the second hour, sending the market jumping 1 to more than 4 points. So heavy was the buying rush that the high speed ticker fell 1 minute behind and the activity promised the biggest day of the year.

ROAMING

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

When any project is put over with a large reverberant bang, and the guests go home talking to each other about how successful it was, then the gang back of the idea deserves a break and that's what this is, a break for the men who put over the community fathers and sons banquet last night.

It was new in the way of such affairs, it had never been tried here before and there was a question as to whether or not the idea would take. It took, just like a vaccination. There hasn't been such a spirit manifest at a banquet in New Castle in four years as there was last night in the Cathedral, and from one end to the other the program clicked.

The dinner itself wasn't exactly expensive, a quarter a plate, and yet for the quarter you got all the good wholesome food you could eat, plus a gob of ice cream for dessert. Don't know how the Wimodauss could serve that layout for a quarter but they did and the empty plates going back to the kitchen was the answer as to what the guests thought.

Another outfit that deserves a break is the Phalanx Fraternity, a group of young fellows who are just beginning to take their places in civic activities of New Castle. They had charge of the tick distribution for the dinner and the job they did had all the earmarks of a fine piece of work. That gang is going to be given more such jobs.

More cards from the travelling correspondent, Harold Baer, this time from Nice and one describing a trip to Granada, Spain. While in Nice he and his mother visited Monte Carlo and saw everything but the Casino. On a motor trip over the mountains to Granada they ran into a heavy snow storm and "Sunny Spain" was forgotten in the folds of an overcoat.

THUMBPRINTS

George Ralph doesn't look like a farmer now...but there was a time when he hoed potatoes on the spot where the Terrace avenue school is located...it was the Ralph farm...then...Maurice McLure has lumbered in a dozen different woods...and still can swing a rather mean axe...and Bob Wallace plowed up enough acreage to cover Pulaski township as a boy.

The membership committee of the Fender Benders Fraternity, a secret committee, is working on members now. Don't be surprised if you get tapped some night in a dark alley and hear the secret word of the fraternity buzzed into your ear. And don't mistake it for a holdup.

MORE ARRESTS

Truck operators arrested for this violation numbered 231 as compared with 94 in January 1932. Speeding bus drivers arrested totaled 31 as contrasted with 28 in the first month of 1932.

JERSEY THREAT

(International News Service)
TRENTON, N. J.—New Jersey has threatened to close the Holland Tunnel, gateway to its sylvan fields and shore resorts, on Sundays to bar New York motorists, if Mayor O'Brien of New York persists in his proposal to tax commuters.

There's one way to beat it. You can quit imposing silly taxes on yourself and save enough to pay the others.

WESTERN STORMS

STARVE ANIMALS

(International News Service)
PORTLAND, Ore., Mar. 3.—Severe winter weather this year is making it hard for wild life in the Oregon country.

Hundreds of deer in the Cochran-Enright area burned over last October are starving to death in snow varying in depth from three to seven feet.

Loggers and trappers report finding deer so weak they cannot walk. Wildcats and cougars are making deep inroads into their ranks. Elk herds have migrated to east sections.

In eastern and southern Oregon wildfowl are starving by thousands. A quick cold snap recently froze hundreds of ducks and geese in the ice of Klamath Lake. Foresters and game wardens went to their rescue, chopped them out of the ice and held them in pens until they had gained sufficient strength to fly.

Fortunately the six weeks Mr. Roosevelt loses will come at the end of his term when they won't seem to be worth so much.

HONK! HONK! HERE'S HITCH-HIKING DUCK

(International News Service)
ATLANTIC CITY, Mar. 3.—The Wild ducks are hitch-hiking in Port Morgan.

Patrolman Jake roh was driving along a downtown street one night recently when he saw a duck in the street. The duck fled at his approach.

A block farther on Stroh again saw the duck.

He opened the door of his car and the duck hopped in.

President Hoover recently signed a bill permitting senators and congressmen to park their cars anywhere in Washington, and for as long as they choose.

URGES 30-HOUR LAW

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA — The government will force the problem of operating a bankrupt system, in the opinion of Emil Rieve, international president of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers, "unless Congress quickly adopts the Black 30-hour bill for industry."

HAS FARM PROGRAM

(International News Service)
BERKELEY, Cal.—The main agricultural problem of the United States is that of adjusting farm production, including marketing and transportation, to population requirements, according to Prof. C. B. Hutchinson, dean of the college of agriculture at the University of California.
